

SYSTEM FOR MONITORING TELECOMMUNICATION NETWORK AND TRAINING STATISTICAL ESTIMATOR

ABSTRACT

Activity parameters which describe the activity of the respective device are determined of at least some of the devices and/or services. The communication parameters determined are compared with a normal range of dependence determined from dependences determined between the devices by a trained statistical estimator, and it is determined whether the communication performance of the devices meets a predetermined criterion.